Know It Well.

Familiar Features Well Known to Hundreds of Norway Citizens.

A familiar burden in many a home. The burden of a "bad back."

A lame, a weak or an aching back. Often tells you of kidney ills.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Here is good testimony to prove it.

Mrs. Elmer Stiles, Western Ave., South Paris, Me., says: "For several years a member of my family suffered from sharp pains through the small of his back. He had dizzy spells, felt tired and was all run down. On a friend's advice, we got Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave prompt relief, in fact, made a great improvement in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills have our highest endorsement."

Jupiter, Our Brightest Star.

The brightest star in all the heavens this summer is Jupiter, who ex-ception, are expressing their deep regrets at the management of the G. T. R. in removing our popular station agent, W. W. Gardner, to Bryant Pond. Mr. Gardner has been one of our best agents and citizens, "kind, obliging and a favorite with our people, but what is our loss is Bryant Pond's gain. Mr. Gardner has resided here for the past two years and he and his family are very much liked.

A great change has taken place here in the last 43 years. At that time there was but one store and a grist mill, one church built principally by the late Lineous and Eleazer Marshall with occasionally frequent preaching. The old Dr. Russell settled here, and he spent his time in the practice of medicine and farming to make a living for himself and family and the doctor who located here afterwards was told that he must expect farming to be his practice in order to make a living.

The cemetery had grown up to weeds and bushes and was badly neglected. Every person, owner of a lot in the cemetery was supposed to care for their lots. At that time, and even later, decoration days, some 45 to 50 veterans of late Civil war would assemble at the church and form in line and by the tap of the drum would march to the cemetery to decorate the few soldiers' graves that he buried there. This year, there were only five left to perform that solemn duty and the silent hand points to their last resting place now. Of the residents of that time only six are now left.

At the present time this village has three churches, four settled ministers, two first-class public halls beside the Masonic, Odd Fellow and Grange halls, Five groceries and variety stores, one first-class drug store, one hardware store, one meat and fish market, jeweler shop, two lively stables,—one with a large automobile connected with their stable. Three large manufacturing establishments and last—but not least, three doctors, doing good business and without the loss of a farm.

But there is one thing that is quite suggestive, the cemetery association has sprung into new life, have bought one or more acres of land connected with the cemetery and have employed a man to look after and improve and beautify the grounds. With a casket maker, four ministers and three doctors, it looks as if they were looking for an increase of business. This need not cast any reflection on our doctors for we have as good physicians here as can be found in the county.

We have no lawyers and in fact don't need them for it is seldom a place of this size where you will find the people so harmonious.

The late one at the Wardwell & Irish Die-block mill has set our people to thinking for a better preparation for a fire.

Thursday, June 13, was a cold day, and people driving into the place were clothed in fur coats and mittens. The late frost has demoralized most of the gardens and killed the large acreage of sweet corn of Fred Berry. Rick of Hick's Almanac predicts a killing frost for September 12.

Bald Heads.

More Women are Bald Than Men, Says Authority.

This is a startling statement but it's true according to an article published in a standard magazine this year.

One thing is certain PARISIAN SAGE will surely prevent baldness by stopping the hair from falling out. It won't grow back after the head is bald.

Ladies, look after your hair, destroy the dandruff germs with PARISIAN SAGE and dandruff will disappear. It stops scalp itch over night and is guaranteed to be the most refreshing, refined and agreeable hair dressing that can be obtained. Sold by Noyes Drug Store and druggists all over America for 50 cents.

My hair was falling out, and I was troubled with itching scalp. I recovered no benefit until I tried PARISIAN SAGE.—Mrs. George Thunders, R. F. D. 5, Marshall, Mich. 24-26.

SOUTH ALBANY.

C. W. York and wife with their daughter, Geraldine York, attended the circus at Lewiston.

Walter Lord and family have visited his father, J. F. Lord, at West Pownal. They went in his new auto.

C. W. York is doing considerable repairing to the inside of his house, painting, papering, putting in new windows, etc.

Walter Lord and wife recently took his mother, Mrs. Lydia Lord, and E. K. Shedd of Sisseton to Portland in their new auto.

Ernest Holt and family of Locke's Mills visited at Merritt Sawin's, Saturday night and Sunday. They spent Sunday night with Mr. Holt's father, Addison Holt, at North Waterford.

Geraldine and Annie York attended the ball game at Fryeburg, Saturday afternoon, between the North Waterford nine and the Fryburgs, resulting in a victory to the North Waterford 8 to 10.

Ernest Sawin attended the graduation exercises at North Bridgton, Wednesday, with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Millett, of Waterford. Their little son, Merritt Sawin, while they were away.

The Albany circle was entertained at James Kimball's, Thursday. A large attendance and a fine time is reported. Some fine music was furnished in the evening by the family and several others on the piano, flute, violin, banjo and mandolin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hersey were through here selling tomato plants and other things. They have a specialty of raising tomato plants and sell hundreds of dozens every spring, while they have peppers, pansies, asters, heliotrope, verbenas and other things as side issues, and have made great success of the business.

Henry Sawin is at home from the hospital. Harry Sawin went after him, Saturday, with an auto and took him to his house at North Waterford, where he stayed until Monday, when he was moved to his home here. Mr. Sawin has improved in some ways but not on the whole as much as his friends had hoped he would.

Pay Your Bills By Check and Check Your Bills When Necessity Arises.

When you pay a bill by check you have an indisputable receipt which can be referred to at any time as an evidence of payment. In case a dispute arises over a payment, the check quickly settles it as it shows the date of payment and bears the endorsement of the party you paid. It is impossible for anyone to compel you to pay a bill twice when you confront him with your check payable to his order and endorsed by him.

ISN'T THIS ONE THING, THE FACT THAT YOU CAN ALWAYS REFER TO A BILL YOU HAVE PAID AND SHOW A RECEIPT, A STRONG REASON WHY YOU SHOULD OPEN AN ACCOUNT WITH THIS STRONG NATIONAL BANK AND PAY ALL YOUR BILLS BY CHECK?

Knees Became Stiff

Five Years of Severe Rheumatism

The cure of Henry J. Goldstein, 14 Barton Street, Boston, Mass., is another victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla.

This great medicine has succeeded in many cases where others have utterly failed. Mr. Goldstein says: "I suffered from rheumatism five years, it kept me from business and caused excruciating pain. My knees would become as stiff as steel. I tried many medicines without relief, then took Hood's Sarsaparilla, soon felt much better, and now consider myself entirely cured. I recommend Hood's."

Get it today in usual round form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

BROWNFIELD.

The Brownfield Schools.

The third annual commencement, of Brownfield High school was held at the Bean Memorial school building, Friday afternoon. Fred W. Danneit was the only member of the senior class and was assisted by the other classes in the programme, which consisted of readings, vocal and piano solos and duets. Rev. O. W. Peterson presented the diploma to Mr. Danneit with a few well chosen remarks. The graduation ball in the evening was very largely attended. Music by Coolbroth's orchestra.

The Primary school, taught by Alice G. Martin, closed Friday afternoon, with very fine exercises by the children. Eight pupils were promoted to the Grammar grade:—Lora Martin, Robert Spring, Deborah Spring, Bernice Johnson, Stella Black, Rupert Johnson, Fred Bowers.

E. F. Witham of Saco, an old resident of Lovell, visited friends in Stoneham last week, also with a party of friends visited his old home at the head of Head's Lake, Lovell. A picnic dinner was served and a general good time was reported.

WATERFORD.

Flag Day.

The grand finale of the school year for Waterford, and the event of the season, was the observance of Friday, June 21, Flag Day. It dawned bright and clear and early morning saw flags flying from nearly all residences in the village. Between nine and ten, numbers began to drive in for the day's celebration, the schools coming in big loads and singing or giving their school songs as they came. Temple Hill most lusty of all with their:—

Here we are, Well known, Temple Hill, Temple Hill, Yes, yes, yes.

And they were here, too, for of the Temple Hill school of which Helen Howe of Norway is the teacher, every member was present. At 10.30 all assembled at the church, where the Union Veterans and the North Waterford Relief Corps were assigned seats of honor. The following program was carried out at the church:

No. XIII.

Down the Road from the David Hill Farm—Memories in the Capt. Hutchins Home—Trouble with Twins—A Revolutionary Story.

Continuing my tramp from the David Hill farm down the road, I stopped for a few moments' chat with James Hardy, an old time friend, at his pleasant home. Then on past the pleasant farm home of Mrs. Ward Hutchins and her son, past the fine old stately mansion of the late Capt. Henry Hutchins of whom I shall write later, and to the home of Fred Messervy, where I enjoyed a pleasant half hour's visit with his father, James Messervy, one of my old time West Fryeburg friends. His first wife was Sarah Hardy, daughter of David Hardy, by whom he had several children. After her death he married for his second wife the widow of Richard Colby, who died some years ago. On a later trip I called and found him pulling and stacking beans back of the house, and where I obtained a fine snap-shot picture of him, which I greatly prize, as it was but a few months later that I read of his sudden death in the columns of the ADVERTISER.

My next stop was at the Edwin L. Walker home, where I enjoyed a pleasant visit with Elmer Walker and his wife Emma, nee Ballard; where I also met Prof. Melvin Ballard of Washington, D. C., who for many years has spent his summer vacations near the home where he spent his happy boyhood days. While there I also enjoyed another pleasant visit with Melvin Andrews, brother of Henry and Callista Andrews, and who was also one of my younger West Fryeburg schoolmates and who was working for the Walkers.

Melvin has traveled extensively. He has lived in Massachusetts, Ohio, Wisconsin, the Red River valley of the Dakotas, along the Minnesota and Dakota lines, and in California. He has seen much both of the bitter and the sweet of life, and now in the 59th year of his life he seemed to be enjoying life living in the old home land and amongst the friends of his boyhood days. I wish now to go back to the Capt. Henry Hutchins home, and delve for awhile amongst the almost forgotten history of the past. In the fifties and early sixties, in my frequent trips about and by the buggy route from Fryeburg and Lovell I often came to the fine old stand of buildings and the long hay and cattle barn have been kept in good repair, and with the lovely lawn are much the same as when I first remember them fifty odd years ago. Mr. Hutchins was an extensive farmer and I remember that one season he broke up a thirty acre pasture and sowed it all to small grain, mostly oats if I remember right.

He kept a small store just across the road from the house and there, that I most frequently saw him. He was a tall, broad shouldered, fine looking man. In politics he was a lifelong democrat and was always one of the leaders of his party, and he was counted as one of the solid men of the town. Of his children I only remember the boys and knew but little of them. Henry was a lawyer and practiced his profession for a while at Lovell village.

I remember that one cold winter day I was at the old fishing grounds at the mouth of the mill brook, trying my luck at catching smelts through the ice, and that same day Henry and Seth Hutchins and another man whose name I cannot remember came also to try their luck at the fishing hole. I do not remember that we caught any fish but the village three brought along a flask to help keep them warm, and on the return trip as I trailed along behind them along the narrow path through the deep snow to the George Farthing barn, where they had their horse stabled, it was quite amusing to watch the crooked tracks, and see the calm dignity with which one at least of the party tried to carry himself, and that one was not Henry.

Uncle Isaac Andrews of Lovell Center was quite noted amongst other things for his love of law suits. His last law suit was with Porter Keniston, who lived up near Cushman's pond. Porter bought of Uncle Isaac a pair of the two ewes I think. After the trade had been made mother remarked that the ewes almost always had twins, and Porter replied that if both had twins he would pay a dollar more. As usual both had twins, but it often happens one of them died, and Porter refused to pay the extra dollar, claiming that he had said that if they had twins and they all lived. Uncle Isaac was not to be cheated out of his rights in that way, and went to Porter's place and took one of the ewes out of place and brought her home, and was promptly arrested for stealing. Uncle Isaac retained D. R. Hastings and Mr. Keniston employed Henry Hutchins, esq., both of whom lived at Lovell village at the time and a big legal fight seemed about to begin.

Neither of the contestants owned a horse at that time and each of them made several trips on foot to the village to consult their lawyers. The fight was finally settled out of court by both parties reluctantly agreeing to arbitrate and the two lawyers agreed to settle the fight. They decided that Uncle Isaac should give up the sheep and that Porter should pay over to Uncle Isaac the one dollar promised. This Porter declared he would not do and Jacob Andrews paid the dollar out of his own pocket to his father, and thus this famous case was settled. I do not think that the lawyers charged any fee for their services. No doubt each felt richly repaid for their time by the occasion being by the childish whims of these two old and cranky men.

Ward Hutchins I first met in the summer of 1892. I found out that he was a brother Odd Fellow and several times that summer I enjoyed short visits with him. Last summer I met one and I think both of his sons upon the streets of West Fryeburg. They were tall, manly looking men and reminded me of their grandfather Hutchins. Freese met. I do not remember ever to have met. He met a sad and tragic death long years ago by being thrown from a buggy near Western's Bridge.

Pascal, known in the neighborhood as Judge, I presume owing to his short, stout and venerable appearance was, I think, the youngest of the boys. Four years ago I met him several times in the neighborhood. A paralytic shock and the infirmities of old age were creeping upon him, and it was with difficulty that he made his accustomed calls on his nearby neighbors. He loved the old home and its old associations, and clung to it until his close, and is now resting with many of his kindred and old friends and neighbors in the quiet peaceful cemetery near his home.

When I was a boy I used to hear my mother tell of old Capt. Hutchins, one of the pioneer settlers of Fryeburg and a veteran of the war of the Revolution. When a girl she said she had often heard him tell of one of his hair breadth escapes from hostile Indians. He was out scouting in the woods alone and not far from camp when he ran upon seven Indians. He knew that nothing but a strategem could save him. And he was equal to the occasion. He yelled in his loud commanding way,—"Hurrah boys! we've got them, we've surrounded them!" And by changing his position often and making the Indians believe he had surrounded them, he made them throw down their arms, and marched the entire seven into camp as prisoners of war. Mother said that when he told his story he cried like a child.

While in Fryeburg I tried to find out something about this Capt. Hutchins, but did not meet with much success until one day while at the cemetery, Byron Hutchins directed me to one of the far corners and I found two old time headstones on one of which was the following inscription:—"Capt. Nathaniel Hutchins—Died June 10th, 1832, aged 89 years," and below,—"He served in the French war 5 years, and was a commanding officer in the Revolutionary war, and was in the battle of Bunker Hill in 1775." The other headstone to the left has this:—"Meditable died, 1820, aged 76 years." Another headstone to the right has this inscription:—"Henry D. Hutchins, died 1852 aged 78."

In this connection I wish to quote again from the life of Dr. Albert Colby, written by himself about 1875. About that time I had some correspondence with Mr. Colby and he sent me this book. I have just resurrected it from amongst my relics, and I find much of interest about my mother and other families.

"My earliest remembrance is of Revolutionary heroes. Our home was surrounded by soldiers of the American Revolution. Our nearest neighbor was Captain Nathaniel Hutchins, a captain in the war for the independence of our country, and a lieutenant in the previous French war, and when the war of 1812 broke out, he had a major's commission sent him, but being bowed by the infirmities of old age, and unable again to participate in the latest madness of battle, he sat down and wept with an exceeding bitter cry, like Esau weeping for his lost blessing."

His granddaughter, Matilda, who most frequently cared for the wants of his declining years, was a noble maiden when I was a child, and she was one of my especial patron saints. I remember her and my father's two youngest sisters, Betsy and Hannah, as three angels always doing good, and I never heard any one of them speak a word of reproach or scold that I would have changed, and I loved them better than any person then living except my mother, but I remember when a child, during a severe sickness of my mother, of praying to God honestly and earnestly to spare her life and take mine.

Matilda gave me the first present that I ever remember, and she taught me to speak pieces and to "hurrah for Jackson." She and my mother were always as one of the solid men of the town. Of his children I only remember the boys and knew but little of them. Henry was a lawyer and practiced his profession for a while at Lovell village.

I remember that one cold winter day I was at the old fishing grounds at the mouth of the mill brook, trying my luck at catching smelts through the ice, and that same day Henry and Seth Hutchins and another man whose name I cannot remember came also to try their luck at the fishing hole. I do not remember that we caught any fish but the village three brought along a flask to help keep them warm, and on the return trip as I trailed along behind them along the narrow path through the deep snow to the George Farthing barn, where they had their horse stabled, it was quite amusing to watch the crooked tracks, and see the calm dignity with which one at least of the party tried to carry himself, and that one was not Henry.

Uncle Isaac Andrews of Lovell Center was quite noted amongst other things for his love of law suits. His last law suit was with Porter Keniston, who lived up near Cushman's pond. Porter bought of Uncle Isaac a pair of the two ewes I think. After the trade had been made mother remarked that the ewes almost always had twins, and Porter replied that if both had twins he would pay a dollar more. As usual both had twins, but it often happens one of them died, and Porter refused to pay the extra dollar, claiming that he had said that if they had twins and they all lived. Uncle Isaac was not to be cheated out of his rights in that way, and went to Porter's place and took one of the ewes out of place and brought her home, and was promptly arrested for stealing. Uncle Isaac retained D. R. Hastings and Mr. Keniston employed Henry Hutchins, esq., both of whom lived at Lovell village at the time and a big legal fight seemed about to begin.

Neither of the contestants owned a horse at that time and each of them made several trips on foot to the village to consult their lawyers. The fight was finally settled out of court by both parties reluctantly agreeing to arbitrate and the two lawyers agreed to settle the fight. They decided that Uncle Isaac should give up the sheep and that Porter should pay over to Uncle Isaac the one dollar promised. This Porter declared he would not do and Jacob Andrews paid the dollar out of his own pocket to his father, and thus this famous case was settled. I do not think that the lawyers charged any fee for their services. No doubt each felt richly repaid for their time by the occasion being by the childish whims of these two old and cranky men.

W. W. Thomas of Sweden, formerly ambassador to that country from the United States, has been a recent guest at The Highlands.

Cadet Arthur Dow Newman, who is home on his two years' furlough from West Point Military academy, is the son of Benjamin T. Newman of Fryeburg, the artist, and is named for Arthur Dow, his father's friend. After graduating from Fryeburg academy, he spent one year in Dartmouth College. He is one of Fryeburg's most promising young men. His mother was Caroline K. Gibson, the daughter of Lt. Col. A. A. Gibson, who was commander of the famous 8th Pennsylvania artillery. Col. Gibson was also a West Point cadet in Gen. Grant's class, where a life-long friendship between the two was formed. He was an officer in the regular army, retiring on 30 years' service. He was born in Brownfield, and his name heads the list of brave soldiers placed on the beautiful monument which was dedicated last year.

Hermon Mason was here, Sunday. He has a fine automobile which he makes good use of.

Fred Baker has recovered from her illness and is at school again. Her mother from Sunday River has been with her here.
Some from here attended church, Sunday, and listened to a sermon to the children from pastor, Mr. Curtis, found in the text of Zach. 8:5, "On the streets of the City shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof."

MOVE ON NOW!
says a policeman to a street crowd, and whacks heads if it don't.
"Move on now," says the big, harsh municipal pills to bowel congested and suffering folk.
Dr. King's New Life Pills don't burn the bowels. They gently persuade them to right action, and health follows. 25c at The Noyes Drug Store.
